INT. GARDEN GRILL - DAY

Three brothers, DANIEL, BUDDY and STEVE are hanging out at a restaurant.

STEVE

Yeah, The pasta is great here - What'd you order, Daniel?

DANIEL

Try the mouth watering
flame-grilled steak!

They chuckle.

BUDDY

How's the newborn baby?

DANIEL

Baby! It's the new thing. Baby.

They give him a weird look.

STEVE

She's great - how's the divorce?

DANIEL

Divorce. Some things... don't last a lifetime.

STEVE

Daniel! We know you've worked in advertising for like a billion years, but can you just be our brother right now?

DANIEL

Oh, now that's a guarantee.

STEVE

Anyway, the reason I brought you guys here today is because we have to deal with grandpa's death.

DANIEL

What's that you say?

BUDDY
 Didn't mom tell you grandpa died?

DANIEL
 Grandpa... for a limited time only?

Steve and Buddy glance at each other.

DANIEL
 But wait! But wait! Call your doctor today!

BUDDY
 Daniel, we did. Grandpa lived a good life, but now he's dead.

Daniel starts rocking in his seat, unable to comprehend mortality. He stands up, faces into the distance, and is about to say the world's most heartfelt and eloquent thing.

STEVE
 Is it possible... he's actually about to say something genuine?

DANIEL
 I.... feel...

Suddenly a waiter brings their food.

WAITER
 Alright, I have 2 pastas and a mouthwatering flame-grilled steak!

DANIEL
 (sings, jingle-style)
 Mouthwatering flame-grilled steak!
 A mouthwatering flame-grilled steaaaaaak!

WAITER
 Does he only talk in advertising slogans?

BUDDY Yeah.

WAITER
 (cheeky)
 ...I like it.

BLACKOUT.
